Submitted by Melinda Gándara

The American Ethnic Studies Department is pleased to honor Rashad Davis as the recipient of the 2022-2023 outstanding student award in Black Studies. Rashad sets himself apart for his positive attitude and ability to balance both his work and academic responsibilities. He has a keen passion for learning and what we admire most is his insatiable desire for literature. Rashad is interested in all genres of writing and can readily discuss works by numerous African American authors. He has participated in our Umoja and mentorship programs and plans to transfer and continue his education in African American studies.
